

Injured officer's spirits high Larry Redding improving every day

By FRANK AMATO

The signs on the ceiling above Larry Redding's bed at the Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital speak of inspiration, his wife, Lori, speaks of inspiration. Inspiration is what makes this story.

"A-W-E-S-O-M-E" says Lori about a physical therapy exercise that Larry performed perfectly today, but couldn't do yesterday.

Redding, a Wilmington police officer was seriously injured in a car accident on Salem street, January 28th.

The accident occurred near 132 Salem St. That area has a very sharp "s" curve and was wet at the time. He was on duty at the time, but driving his personal vehicle.

Larry spent the next 22 days at the Lahey-Hitchcock Clinic in Burlington fighting for his life in a coma. Lori and her father spent countless hours searching for the best rehabilitation hospital for Larry. He was then transferred February 19th to the Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital (NRH) in Salem, N.H., with a bleak prognosis.

Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital is an 11 year old full care facility located on a former Arabian horse farm. The hospital specializes in patients with head injuries and boasts nearly a 3:1 staff to patient ratio. This facility seems to have made its mark on Larry and Lori.

"When he arrived he was so heavily medicated, it was impossible to make a prognosis" said Dr. James A. Whitlock, a Behavioral Neurologist, Larry's NRH physician. Within a few days of his arrival, and a review and adjustment of his medications, he began to show signs of consciousness. About two weeks into his stay at NRH he became conscious.

Walking into his room, one feels an aura of support. The walls are covered with cards of support and well being, military and police

Bad air still a problem

By FRANK AMATO

Is something in the air at the North Intermediate School? Apparently so. The second of two reports has been received by the school. The first, was a report dated December 9th 1996, by ATC Associates, an independent consulting firm hired by the Town of Wilmington to conduct Indoor Air Quality (IAQ) and Microbiological testing at the school. "All indoor air quality parameters were within normal guideline ranges with the exception

Public Meeting April 18th

Future needs to be discussed

WILMINGTON - Selectmen were advised at Monday evening's meeting that plans for Wilmington's future space needs will be addressed at an open informational meeting scheduled for 7 p.m., Tuesday, April 8 at Town Hall.

Tentative plans include development of a recreation project at the Whitfield School which would include demolishing the building and constructing a playground. The work, if on schedule could be completed in 1999 at an estimated cost of $750,000; expansion of the library at an estimated cost of $4,000,000 and expanding the public works garage on Andover Street at an estimated cost of $1,700,000.

Plans also include a new municipal center at the Swain School site; deciding the best plans for Town Hall with a time frame within six years and a fire substation project around 2004 with an estimated $500,000 cost.

Selectmen agreed that "It's great to have long range plans, but that nothing is written in stone."

Patriots, dome coming here?

WILMINGTON - During Monday night's meeting, Wilmington Selectmen entertained a proposal to explore a joint venture with Tewksbury Selectmen that would study possible construction of a domed stadium in the North Wilmington / South Tewksbury area.

The stadium, planned for the New England Patriots could also include a hotel complex.

Chairman Rooney commented that Patriots owner Bob Kraft was "extremely excited about the location" which would be parallel to Route 93, Dascomb Road and Route 125.

The board will interested in comments from area residents regarding the proposal.

Used book donations

If you decide to get rid of any used books after you finish spring cleaning, the library does accept donations. Due to limited space, please call the library before dropping off any boxes of books.

The library, in evaluating each donated book, uses the same guidelines for inclusion of donated materials in the collection that it uses for purchases.

Please consider the following criteria before taking donations to the library: Books should be in good physical condition with no writing inside. There should be no stains or mildew, nor should pages be yellow or brittle. Although some disciplines do not "age" in information, others do. Therefore, textbooks should not be more than five to eight years old. However, computer and high tech books should not be more than two to three years old.

Letters to the editor

WILMINGTON

Our other crisis - sewerage

Dear Editor:

With all the talk lately about building a new school and a new police/fire station, I want to point out that the residents of this town continue to face another very important issue - comprehensive sewer service.

Over the past couple of years, many of us have seen first hand how burdensome and expensive the new Title V regulations can be for the average homeowner. Usually a new septic system has to be installed much higher than the old one, requiring large amounts of expensive fill to be used. The average cost of installing a new septic system in this town is well over $10,000.00, often running as high as $20,000.00. This cost can only go up.

On the other hand, the town has worked successfully over the past several years to decrease the cost of sewer service. The administration has supported a changed rate structure, and private developers have been encouraged to tie into existing sewer systems at no cost to the town. At last year's annual town meeting, we supported increased sewer service by voting 134 to one to construct a new sewer line along the Route 38 Corridor.

Let's show our support for increased sewer service again this year. On April 26, vote yes on the Lowell Street sewer project. The thought of replacing a septic system to the tune of $15,000 is far more upsetting to me than spending $15 a month for a school and a police/fire station that we obviously need.

Editorial

As you may have noticed in recent issues of the Town Crier, the large photographic expose of the Police and Fire stations, and the Schools this week. The Town Crier, is in complete support of the proposal for a new public safety building and middle school.

The members of our police and fire departments put their lives at risk every day for the citizens of Wilmington. These outstanding public servants deserve to operate in a facility with the space and equipment to complete their work in comfort.

Our children are the future of our town, and our teachers are the educators of these children. If we want our children to have a positive outlook on their lives, we need to give them every opportunity to grow and prosper and do our part to relieve the overcrowding in our schools now.

April 19th is voting day. Please come to the voting booth with the courage and support Wilmington needs to have a bright future.

Vote yes.

Town Crier publications sold

The Wilmington Town Crier and the Tewksbury Town Crier, joint publications of the Wilmington News Company, Inc. have been sold in recent days to the Woburn Daily Times, Inc.

The Woburn Daily Times, Inc. publishes the Daily Times Chronicle headquartered in Woburn as well as the Stoneham Independent in Stoneham, MA.

The announcement was made today by publisher Captain Larz Neilson and general manager Stu Neilson of the Town Crier publications. Both will remain active at the newspaper serving as Publisher Emeritus and General Manager, respectively.

The Wilmington Town Crier was founded by Larz Neilson in November 1955 and has been under his tutelage through the years. The Tewksbury Town Crier edition began in 1972.

"We've been in business with the Daily Times Chronicle since the mid-1970s through Middlesex East Publications," noted Stu Neilson. "The 'Times' has always been supportive of our efforts here at the Crier for over a quarter of a century and we just thought the time was right to integrate the process."

"The sale, will allow for an upgrading of business equipment and procedures," said Stu Neilson, "who said it's a good deal for the readers and advertisers."

The Woburn Daily Times, Inc., based in Woburn, has provided the printing functions for the Town Crier for two decades. Finished pages of the Town Crier are taken to the nearby Daily Times publishing plant where they are put onto the presses.

Independent and locally owned by the Haggerty Family since 1901, the Daily Times Chronicle publishes five daily editions serving Woburn, Winchester, Burlington, Reading and Wakefield. They also publish the Stoneham Independent and are in the Middlesex East Publications with the North Reading Transcript and the Lynnfield Villager.

Over the years, there have been joint selling arrangements on advertising between the two groups, as well as an exchange of editorial material.

"The sale," Stu Neilson noted, "will allow for an even stronger base for news and advertising."

WILMINGTON

Have you seen the fire station lately?

Dear Larz:

With expanded growth in our community comes the need for services to support that expansion. It is now time for us to improve our community, now and for the future, by voting for the proposed space solution for two vital services public safety and education.

Have you seen the police or fire station lately? Taken a tour of one of the elementary or middle schools? When you do, you will realize how cramped we are for space. The police are operating in space built for 14, yet operate at over three times the size. The fire department is similarly situated. Many of the classrooms operate at higher-teacher ratios significantly higher than general standards, indeed beyond that indicated in teacher contracts, and face increasing class sizes with the influx of new families buying new homes.

The solution? Vote for the upcoming debt exclusion that will fund a joint public safety facility and a new middle school. Sixty-five percent of the school costs are eligible for governmental reimbursement. And your vote means a temporary tax increase, not one that would flow to the town's general funds permanently.

Vote to improve our community, now and for the future. Vote Yes on Question 1 on April 19 and at Town Meeting on April 26.

Sincerely,
Sue and Mike Leverone

TEWKSBURY

Apathy has struck again!

Dear Larz:

As it seems to many, Tewksbury apathy has struck again. No scheduled debates between candidates and only a small percentage of voters at the polls might seem to indicate this. However, the recent decisions in town truly warrant less apathy. With the analysis of the needs of the school system complete, sewer line placement conflicts, tax increases for the new police station, library, elementary school, a shudder is firmly driven down the spine of any timely taxpayer.

Normally I would not publicly advocate any one candidate, but exciting changes in town seem to support a fresh look at local politics. Ruth Teague brings the concepts of integrity and community advocacy to her political campaign. She knows town, state and federal government process and she uses this knowledge and her people skills to create a better community. Ruth supports issues that affect all citizens, not just those in her immediate precinct or circle of acquaintances. Ruth mostly works at the grassroots level, in the trenches, with the people she helps, identifying immediate and long term goals while acting with vision necessary to determine how current issues fit into the whole.

Case in point is Mrs. Teague's work with the not-for-profit organization CREST, founded by her and her husband Frank. Through Citizens for Responsible for an Environmentally Sound Tewksbury, Ruth advocates sound building practices in relation to the wetland areas in town. With this tack, she addresses many poignant issues facing suburban Boston now.

How can we encourage responsible building practice at the same time preserve open space? How do we improve infrastructure and services so that all Tewksbury citizens are equally affected by an increasing town population?

All of her actions reflect her deep love of Tewksbury and a desire for its improvement. Ruth has always acted her conscience with responsibility for those actions. She is a valuable resource for Tewksbury.

Yours truly
Priscilla Harte

WILMINGTON

The windows leak and vents don't

Dear Larz:

Wilmington's growth is undeniable - 1300 homes in the last 10 years. A 200 unit apartment complex on the horizon and 400 housing permits still outstanding.

Our fire station is bursting at the seams, our police station was built for 32 less patrolmen then it currently houses. The Swain site has holes in the ceilings, hanging plaster and ripped flooring.

Our children are being asked to put up with facilities that are stretched "to the max." Art and music rooms are a thing of the past. Windows that leak, concerns about air quality, archaic ventilation and heating systems exist. Class sizes far exceed the department of education recommendation of 22. Special programs (pre school and the alternative high school program) are being housed in the high school, effectively using the space there, as well.

At what point do we admit that the "status quo" is no longer adequate. I believe that time is now. Join with me and vote for a better future for our town and the children. Vote yes on Article One in the April 19 Election.

Sincerely,
Nancy Colella

TEWKSBURY

School lunches are good, and the staff is, too

Dear Larz:

I am writing this letter to express my concern regarding the issue of privatization of the school food service program in the Tewksbury Public Schools.

The School Committee is currently investigating the possibility of privatizing the school lunch program and thus dissolving the current system as we know it. I attended Tewksbury schools and so was a "customer" of the food prepared by the cafeteria workers. As my children started attending school, they also regularly ate the many good meals prepared for them, in their case, by the Heath Brook School staff.

I have also been a substitute worker in all but a few of the school kitchens in Tewksbury and can say first hand that the women who cook and serve the many wonderful meals for our children, do it with great care. The cafeteria workers also have a rapport with the student population, as well as the staff, that I feel would be greatly missed if they were replaced.

I urge you to support our fine staff of cafeteria workers and the great job that they do and make your wishes known to the School Committee members. Thank you.

WILMINGTON

Don't put up a parking lot!

Dear Larz:

Some few years back the town threw out Urban Renewal.

We threw it out, boy were we lucky. There is a town not too far from here that passed Urban Renewal. That town still is not built up. You see, when you use someone else's money to build up something, you go by their orders on how and what you can build which is a very big pain in the pocketbook.

They talk of how it will build up the business in town. I am unable to see that removing what is already there and putting in a large parking lot will improve anything. I've never seen an empty car do much shopping. The people just rush to the train in the morning and to their home at night.

On widening the street to four lanes. Remember the old saying "two things cannot occupy the same place at the same time." What is going to happen when two cars try to get back to one lane? Look at the roads in the town and town around us, all two lanes. We are going to form a beautiful bottleneck. Just look and see what happens when on 93 and 128 when they cut a lane off. You don't see the cars moving any faster. It's just the opposite.

We love our town, give us a little time and we will clean it up. It will just take a little bit longer.

Reginald Bishop

Taxpayers for Space Solutions

WILMINGTON - Wilmington Taxpayers for Space Solutions was formed to promote support for the construction of a new middle school, for grades six through eight, and a new joint public safety building, for the Police and Fire Departments.

This group is comprised of concerned citizens, parents, police officers, and firefighters. The group is running an aggressive campaign aimed at achieving a majority vote for a debt exclusion at April's Election and Town Meeting. This article will propose a new school building, and a new public safety building.

All residents are cordially invited to a rally which will be held Sunday, April 6, 1997; (Raindate April 13). It will begin at 1 p.m. on the Wilmington Town Common.

They encourage everyone to take a picnic lunch, spread a blanket, and enjoy a fun afternoon which will include:

- Coffee, and soft drinks provided by Wilmington Burger King.

- Balloons, face painting, tattoos.
- Music and dancing provided by Wilmington resident Don Heenan of D & K Entertainment.

The public is also invited to join Wilmington Taxpayers for Space Solutions at its next meeting on Tuesday, April 1 at 7 p.m. It will be held at Stelio's Restaurant, located at 144 Lowell Street/Route 129.

For more information, contact James Savage, chairperson at 508-658-7669 or Judson Miller, coordinator of the Publicity Committee at 508-657-4518.

Larry makes a comeback

memorabilia, and signs of inspiration only begin to tell the story of Larry.

"Weeks" is the term used to describe when Larry will go home. "He's doing very well" says Dr. Whitlock.

In addition to his head injury, he has overcome fractures of the pelvis, leg, ribs and spinal fracturing. "Nothing hurts or is painful" says Larry.

The real story here is how an entire community, police force, and loved ones have rallied around Larry. That enormous support group has given Larry and his family the strength to survive.

Anyone who knows Larry is quite aware of his unique sense of humor, he has a dry, subtle wit about him. During a rigorous hour long physical therapy session, he paused, and said: "I feel like an old fart" then about a minute later went on to the next exercise. The workout was obviously difficult physically, but he managed to continually crack jokes with everyone in the room.

During his speech therapy, he was given a sample restaurant menu with mistakes, and he had to pick out the errors such as mashed potatoes instead of mashed potatoes, and the like. Larry got these easily.

"Cashey" the family dog, a miniature Dachshund has been in for a visit. "He's a wuss, he kept shaking, the dog was more traumatized than Larry. We could have him here every day, but it would be too much for him (the dog)". Said Lori.

Larry is getting 5-6 hours of various therapies a day, his wife is constantly at his side, not to mention a small army of police officers, friends and an entire community behind him. What more could one ask?

No wonder he is doing so well.

Ed. note: The Town Crier would like to thank the Wilmington Police Department and the Redding family for arranging this interview, and the Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital for their assistance.

SELLING RENTAL PROPERTIES

Marketing a rental property presents some special challenges. Most owners want to offer the house for sale while tenants are still living there so that the property continues to bring in income. Most Realtors prefer that their listings either be occupied by the owner or empty. Tenant-occupied homes are often the most difficult to sell since the tenants may not share the same pride of ownership. They may be very messy and, as a result, the house is not shown to its best advantage.

When you put a tenant-occupied house on the market, it is important that you enlist the tenants in the effort to get the house sold. Talk to the tenants first to see if they have a desire and ability to buy the house. If they are not interested in buying, work out with them the ground rules for access to the house. In most cases, the new owners will want the tenants to move, and it will be important to work out alternate living arrangements with them, if necessary. In each situation, work hard to create a spirit of cooperation with the tenants.

After years of casting about he's:

The fisherman's fisherman

by Ed Larkin

He is a fisherman's, fisherman. After 59 years of casting, jigging, and trolling, Joe Ayers still wakes up thinking about his next fishing trip. His basement is filled with photographs and trophies of countless fishing expeditions. He is the fisherman that didn't let the big one get away.

He recalls the water thrashing around the shoreline as he pulled and tugged the 26 pound sturgeon from the Ohio River. Just six years old, Joe was pulling in his first fish. From that day on, Joe was hooked for life on a sport that would take him fishing all over the world.

"I remember using a piece of Christmas twine and some worms to catch that fish," reminisced Joe.

After serving his country for 22 years, with two tours of duty in Vietnam, Joe retired from the United States Air Force and started a new career as a service manager for a local Cadillac dealership. He worked 12 years for them and decided to go into full retirement and fish as much as humanly possible.

Joe will tell you 65 percent of Americans choose fishing as their favorite individual pastime. Joe sees it this way, "fishing allows anyone the same chance, and every time you go fishing you learn something new."

Unlike many anglers, Joe believes in sharing information about his best fishing holes. He thinks passing on tips about techniques, tackle, and trends are the responsibilities of every good fisherman.

Early on in his retirement Joe decided he wanted to teach young people about the wonderful sport of fishing. He placed an ad in the local paper inviting parents and young folks to his home. In his proposal, he wanted to form a club that would use him, as well as other mentors, to teach fishing to young people.

This simple proposal found 60 parents with children on Joe's doorstep a week later.

"I thought maybe a half dozen at best. I could not believe all these people wanted to have their kids learn about fishing," said Joe.

After lots of planning and meetings, the Junior Buzzards Fishing Club was formed. For 10 years, seven times a year, Joe would plan trips around New England. Each trip originated and ended in Joe's front yard. After 10 years, Joe passed the reins on to others who worked with him over the years.

Today, the club still exists in Burlington, with chapters in Tewksbury and Billerica.

"One of the things I love most about fishing is teaching someone about this wonderful sport."

Although Joe no longer leads the youngsters on fishing trips, he still lectures often to high school classes, Boy Scouts, and his favorite group, the Tewksbury Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A life member of the VFW, Joe feels strongly about giving back to the community. He gives of his time freely and often. "I enjoy all things that have to do with fishing, and if I can pass on some knowledge, fishing is better for it," said Joe.

"My family moved down to Florida when I was heading into my teens. We lived in the keys for a while and I used to fish off the Seven Mile Bridge. We used to catch all kinds of sharks. I would spend day and night fishing out there. Sharks were considered junk fish back then, so if one died in the fight, oh well. I wish we knew back then what we know now. Catch and release is the only way he is partial to bass fishing. As a matter of fact, he is a fanatic about bass fishing. Joe has four bass boats. One of the boats is a limited edition custom that will never be reproduced again. His basement is filled with wall to wall bass lures, bass rods, and bass reels.

"I enjoy bass fishing so much because it is so high tech," said Joe.

What Joe is referring to is the extreme amount of equipment available to the bass fisherman. For example, there are jerk baits, top water lures, spinner baits, and hundreds of artificial critters. Joe has more than he can count.

Joe looks at it this way, "a carpenter wouldn't go to work without his tools, would he?" Included in Joe's extensive resume, is a trip to the Bass Masters' Tournament, as well as selection to the Massachusetts State Bass Team, several times. Over the years, Joe has fished in hundreds of bass tournaments. Joe offers the following advice to ensure a more productive fishing trip.

The most important thing to do is to acquire a map of the lake or waterway you are going to fish. Research the map closely. Choose an area and fish that one area until you learn all the ins and outs. Each time you go to a large lake, try a new spot and learn that area. That gives you options. If the place you're fishing isn't producing, move on to an area where you caught fish before.

Maps and lake information can be obtained for little or no cost from the Department of Fisheries and Wildlife. Call the Department of Fisheries and Wildlife at 617-727-3151 for more information.

Learn to find the thermocline. This is the ideal band of water temperature for each species. Bass like their water in the 59/60 degree range. As the season grows longer, the fish go deeper. This is true of many species. Do your research and learn the habits of the fish. Finding the band increases your chances of catching a fish 10-fold.

Change the line on your rods often. Joe changes the line every time he goes fishing. Make sure your rods are in good working order. One nick in the line is all it takes to lose a good fish.

Rig as many rods as you can so you can change tactics by reaching for a new fishing pole. Having different lures tied on ahead of time, saves valuable fishing time. Make sure hooks are sharp. Even if you have new lures or hooks, sharpen them. If you are fishing from a boat, make sure you have life jackets and other necessary safety equipment.

Learning proper presentation is also very important to fishing success. Presentation is the skill that entices the fish to lunge at your lure. Unlike live bait, the angler controls the speed and action of the artificial offering. Learning to work different baits widens the spectrum of angling opportunity.

Joe's formula is simple, research, maintenance, and variety. Combine all three, and he believes you have just upped your chances of catching fish. If you are just getting started, Joe suggests a medium priced rod and reel combination. At a cost of $30, most major chain stores can provide a good rig. Ensure the equipment is a matched combination. Reel and rod should be matched for weight and line size. Make sure the drag system is easy to operate and works well.

Here is a list of Joe's favorite local fishing holes:

Silver Lake, Wilmington,
Webster Lake, Webster,
Lake Quinsigmond, Shrewsbury
Lake Cochituate, Natick
Concord River, Boat ramp in Billerica

Horne Pond, Woburn
Nuttings Lake, Billerica

All of these lakes, ponds, and rivers offer excellent fishing. Many of them are stocked with trout and salmon. Whatever your choice in fishing, all of these waterways are within an hour's drive of our area. If you don't have a boat, most of these areas offer good shore fishing. The state stocking program is already in action, so make headway to a local body of water and get fishing.

Try these tips from Joe this spring and see if you have greater success. Fish on the north side of lakes and ponds early on during the season. Fish two days after a warm front comes through New England. Two days before and after the full moon in May, Joe feels, offer some of the best spring fishing.

Joe also guides anglers looking to improve their skills or those who are just in search of a great day of fishing. He likes to keep it to two people at a time. This allows him to give individual attention.

Meanwhile, Joe prepares for the many fishing days ahead. Until he decides to start moving all around New England to find the best fishing, Joe can be found at the Tewksbury VFW passing out angling advice.

On top of Joe's favorite fishing hat is a pin of a rising fish. Underneath the fish are the words "Petri Heil," this means "Let's Go Fishing" in German. For Joe, any language means it is time to go fishing. Joe sums it up this way, "If you want to catch a fish, go early, stay late." Sound advice from a fisherman's fisherman.

Relaxing among his many and varied trophies, Joe Ayers is generous with advice on how to land that big one.. (Frank Amato photo)

COMPARING LOSS SETTLEMENTS
QUESTION: Would an insurance claim for valuable personal items pay an amount equal to today's market value or, rather, their depreciated value?
ANSWER: It would depend on the coverage you have. There are two methods of settling insurance claims on personal possessions: Actual cash value and replacement coverage. Actual cash value replaces possessions at their depreciated value. Replacement coverage pays you for today's full cost of the loss item with no deduction for depreciation. Replacement coverage is an outstanding value and can be added to your homeowners policy with just a phone call to your agent.
REPLACEMENT COVERAGE Insurance pays for losses at today's purchase price.

5th annual Reunion attracts 200 Wilmingtonites

TARPON SPRINGS, FLA. - Thunderstorms were forecast, but they came early on Friday, so Saturday was a lovely day in western Florida - a day just like the Chamber of Commerce brags about. To make the Wilmington Reunion even better than usual, Richard and Zenaida Pellerin had picked 55 quarts of strawberries and shared them with everyone.

Nearly 200 Wilmington folks gathered at Fred Howard Park in Tarpon Springs, near Tampa, Florida for what now, after five years, seems to have become an annual event. Everyone brought their own picnic lunch and talked, and talked, and talked.

“It's so smooth; it's like I'm flying.”

—Annie Rose

Saturns are extremely aerodynamic, which helps them cut through the wind, for better gas mileage and things like that. They're also extremely smooth, thanks to something called four-wheel independent suspension, which makes Saturns seem almost like they're riding on air. But alas, they are in fact earthbound with all that traffic. Which is why we also gave them a pretty impressive sound system to while away the time.

Hope to see you soon.

Medicare tips

WILMINGTON - All senior citizens under Medicare, HMOs or Medex policies, should be aware of the drastic cuts in medical treatment being covered under all of these programs.

Many letters are being received by seniors from Medicare, stating "Medicare will not pay for this service, because we feel it was not medically necessary." If you receive this type of letter from Medicare, you should call them. The number is on the letter. If you do not receive any help, call the offices of Senator Kennedy, Kerry and Congressman Tierney. Let them know how you feel about this type of treatment.

All the treatment and tests you are receiving are because you are ill. I am sure no senior citizen is going to walk into a hospital and ask for treatment or a test on their own. These tests are given to find out what is causing a medical problem. They should all be covered by the $43.80 taken from your Social Security check each month, to pay for 80 percent of your medical bills.

HMOs
HMOs are cutting back on treatment for certain illnesses and are sending patients home from the hospital a day after an operation, not able to care for themselves. Blue Cross is shifting the cost of the deficit on to the shoulders of the elderly under their policies. Blue Cross feels they are spending too much money on the healthcare of seniors in Massachusetts. Money they want to increase their revenue. They will be eliminating Medex Gold in favor of a policy that would cap prescription drugs and dramatically increase the seniors co-payment, along with drastic cuts in medical services.

Seniors under HMOs do not seem to realize that all HMOs receive very large monthly payments from Medicare for every senior in an HMO program. Even though the seniors' medical treatment is not paid directly by Medicare, you are still paying Medicare the $43.80 a month. These are not the only problems the elderly are going to be facing trying to receive medical treatment. The Federal budget will be up for discussion very soon. President Clinton who promised to protect Medicare is now asking for a $100 billion cut in Medicare and the Republican Congress is proposing a $200 billion cut.

Not happy?

If you are not happy with the services you are receiving under Medicare, HMOs or private insurance companies (like Blue Cross), call or write the President, Senators Kennedy, Kerry or Congressman Tierney. Let them know how you feel about the treatment and cuts being placed on you as senior citizens. Let them know you voted for them to protect you, not to let you die unnecessarily due to cutbacks on needed medical care.

Donnelly reaching new heights

By JAMIE POTE

Megan Donnelly, arguably the best female athlete ever to walk through the halls of Wilmington High School, can now add another milestone to her outstanding achievements.

Donnelly is one of the 26 finalists - which include former Celtics guard Danny Ainge and current Miami Dolphin back-up quarterback Bernie Kosar - who are candidates for induction of the GTE Academic All-America Hall of Fame.

Donnelly, a WHS graduate of 1982 and an Hall of Fame member, captured the hearts of many at WHS with her fantastic field hockey playing days under then coach Jan Cassidy-Wood. Donnelly went on with a terrific career at U.Mass where she was a four-time All-America Selection and a member of the 1983 NCAA All-Tournament Team. She was also named to the NCAA All-Decade team behind her 87 career points.

After that, Donnelly played in the 1988 U.S. Olympics. And in 1984 she was an interim coach at U.Mass as she led the team to an Atlantic 10 Conference Title with an 12-3-3 record. Currently, Donnelly is a volunteer coach for the University of North Carolina Field Hockey team as she attends graduate school.

GTE, in cooperation with the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA), established the Hall of Fame in 1988 to honor former outstanding college student-athletes who have attained high achievement in their professions and have made substantial contributions to their communities.

The finalists were GTE Academic All-America Team members who graduated at least ten years ago. They were selected from a group of more than 100 Hall of Fame nominees and were chosen by a 90-member voting board representing the 1,800 CoSIDA members.

Only four student-athletes will be inducted into the Hall of Fame which has 40 enshrined already including Joe Theismann, Bill

Walton and Chris Collinsworth to name a few. The final inductees will be made on April 16.

The Academic All-America Teams program was established by CoSIDA in 1952 to honor these college student-athletes who excel both in the classroom and on the athletic field. GTE has been the exclusive sponsor of the program since 1985.

Each year, 684 student-athletes are selected to the five men's teams (football, basketball, winter-at-large, baseball and spring-at-large) and five women's teams (volleyball, basketball, winter-at-large, softball and spring-at-large) at the University (Division I-A/I-AA) and College (Division II-III) levels.

GTE, one of the largest publicly held telecommunications companies in the world, is the largest U.S. based local telephone company and leading cellular service provider - with wireline and wireless operations that form a market are covering about one-third of the country's population.

The Town Crier was unable to contact Megan Donnelly for comment.

Tate to take on rest of country

By JAMIE POTE

After ending his phenomenal high school career with a bang, Wilmington High School senior wrestler Billy Tate has now gone to another level: National.

On the weekend starting April 3, Tate and head coach Mike Pimental will be driving ten hours to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania as Tate will take part in the National High School Wrestling Championships.

Tate, who was the Massachusetts State Champion at the 130-pound weight class and to top that off he took a fourth place in the New England as an alternate, got the nod to go to the Nationals because he was a state champion. In this tourney though, Tate will drop down a weight class to 125 and he is able to place within the top eight, he will be an All-American.

"It feels really good," Tate said. "And to be the first kid ever to go from this school. I just hope that I will inspire many more kids to become state champions so they will get a chance to go in the future."

Last year there were 606 wrestlers who took part in this extravaganza as 47 out of the 50 states were represented. And the weekend of April 3 will not only be the absolute best kind of wrestling competition there is, it will also be the top recruiting time for colleges.

"People might say that we are crazy to drive ten hours just hoping to win one match," said head coach Mike Pimental. "But it's more than that - it's not only terrific experience for Billy, but he will bring back a lot of experience back to Wilmington and that is excellent."

The tournament is sponsored by every state except Massachusetts.

The M.I.A.A. does not sanction individuals such as Tate going Nationally. Therefore, Tate is looking for a few donations or sponsors who will help defray the cost of the trip.

"If anyone can contribute to diminish the expense of the trip, it would be really, really helpful."

Billy is not only representing himself, but he is representing the Massachusetts," Pimental said.

school, the town and the state of "This is so exciting, we can't wait," said Pimental.

If anyone would like to help Tate with his expenses to take part in the Nationals, they are urged to contact Mike Pimental at WHS.

Spring season near

As the warm weather and sunny skies are about to hit us in a matter of weeks, that means that the spring sports season will also be coming.

Within the next two weeks, the Town Crier will have features on all of the spring teams at WHS. You might want to check out what should be another fantastic softball team, as well as what could be a very promising baseball squad. The boys and girls track teams as well as tennis teams also look as if they are improving.

Gear up for spring action with the Town Crier.

NOVENA to ST. JUDE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us, and St. Jude, the worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer nine times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will have been answered. This prayer has never been known to fail. Publication promised. My prayers have been answered.

Arguably the best player in baseball, Ken Griffey, Jr. of the Seattle Mariners, has a laugh or two during a Spring Training game.

Behind big trade, can Indians take it all?

By JAMIE POTE

Even though the National League has four teams who appear to all have a shot at going to the Big Dance, well the American League can top that as it appears as if they have about six or possibly seven teams who all have a legitimate shot to go.

My pick for the World Series again comes from the American League, but just to let you know my choices for the World Series are two teams that I really like, that I believe can go to the World Series sparring injuries and getting the late season acquisitions to help their needs. Anyhow, my choices are different than the typical Atlanta-Cleveland matchup that every one else has.

So here's a glance at the American League:

AL East

- 1). Baltimore
- 2). Toronto
- 3). Boston
- 4). New York
- 5). Detroit

Baltimore Orioles--

Additions: RHP Shawn Boskie, LHP Jimmy Key, OF's Jerome Walton and Eric Davis, SS Mike Bordick and C Lenny Webster.

Subtractions: LHP David Wells, OF Bobby Bonilla, DH Eddie Murray, 3B Todd Zeile, INF Manny Alexander and C Marc Parent.

Outlook: Every year the Birds have the ability to win on paper, probably just because they have Cal Ripken and Mike Mussina. But they made two huge additions to the team and they are Mike Bordick and Jimmy Key. I still believe Cal belongs at shortstop, but Bordick is very good with the glove and he is another veteran.

The last few years it has been said that the Orioles don't have the right leadership in the clubhouse and that's why they never can get over that hump. Well starting from the top with very underrated manager Davey Johnson, leadership should not be a problem as Johnson has many veterans from Ripken, Bordick, Davis, Rafael Palmeiro and so on and that should help this team gel.

Obviously, the team's strength is its offense - power that is. But the team plans on batting Eric Davis second, which means that they have no right handed power in the middle of the order, and that could hurt. But the top four of Anderson (.297 50 110 21), Davis (.287 26 83 23), Roberto Alomar (.328 22 94 17) and Palmeiro (.289 39 142 8) are probably the best top four in baseball after the Mariners and Padres with the Royals and Twins right with them. And after the first four, Johnson has Ripken, B.J. Surhoff, Chris Hoiles, the platoon of Pete Incaviglia and Tony Tarasco at D.H. and then Bordick - that's a terrific starting nine.

Defensively, the team got big uplifts with Bordick and Davis. The infield is one of, if not the best in baseball, while the outfield is respectable even with the iffy Surhoff in right. Catching remains to be the team's biggest problem as Hoiles is not anything near even a Mike MacFarlane.

As for the pitching staff, the bullpen appears to be very good and that should be the focus as several of the starters are not that strong. Randy Myers will be the closer (he would be a perfect even up trade with Boston's Tom Gordon) and he will be helped out by Armando Benitez, Jesse "I'm 200 years old" Orosco, Arthur Rhodes, Terry Mathews and Alan Mills.

As for the starting five, Mike Mussina is coming off a 19 win season, but his E.R.A. was just a bit better than that of Tim Wakefield. But he is the ace and he can be a dominating ace, but who knows when that will happen?

pen? After Mussina, Key is very deceptive, very crafty and a pitcher that I would love to have be pitching for the Sox. Key will take a lot of pressure off Mussina as we should win 15-18 games if healthy. The last three spots of Scott Erickson, Boskie and Rocky Copping combined to go 35-29 last year and that trio will either make or break this team from finally winning something.

Toronto Blue Jays

Additions: RHP's Roger Clemens, Robert Person, LHP Dan Plesac, OF Orlando Merced, 2B Carlos Garcia and C Benito Santiago.

Subtractions: IB John Olerud
Outlook: Wouldn't it be great if the Red Sox finish ahead of the Blue Jays? Or wouldn't it be great if the Sox shell Clemens in his first appearance back at Fenway? I'm not going to bash Clemens because he left, but now he is on another team and everything he had done for the Sox is in the past - so now you hope that he stinks the joint out.

Anyway, pitching depth, is one reason why the Jays should really do well this year. With Clemens, Juan Guzman and Pat Hentgen to go with an excellent bullpen, this should be a very good team who has a shot just like the Birds to represent the A.L. Erik Hanson is a superb fourth starter and look for him to have a big year, while, the fifth spot is up for grabs.

The pignen is loaded as Mike Timlin, Tim Crabtree, Paul Spoljaric, Dan Plesac, Woody Williams and Paul Quantrill are all very good and very underrated.

The offense is good, but not great. Shaun Green and Alex Gonzalez are the two players who need to have big years. Otis Nixon and Garcia should be great table setters for Carlos Delgado and Joe Carter.

Oh for the record, I expect Clemens to go 17-6 with a very high E.R.A. maybe 5.58. He will win because he will pitch his six or seven innings and give up his lead to a very good bullpen. But he will have a high E.R.A. because he will pitch more on the fake stuff and just because he is not pitching for the Sox anymore.

Boston Red Sox

Additions: RHP's John Wasdin, Jim Corsi, Robinson Checo and Bret Saberhagen, LHP's Steve Avery, Chris Hammond, OF's Shane Mack, Jesus Tavarez, INF Mike Benjamin and C Tim Spehr.

Subtractions: RHP's Roger Clemens, Stan Belinda, OF's Mike Greenwell, Lee Tinsley and DH Jose Canseco.

Outlook: I don't know if I really believe that the Sox will be better then the defending champs, but I truly hate the Yankees and I don't think I will ever say that the Pinstripers will do better then the Sox.

But, I do believe that the Sox will be a lot better than what everyone says they will be. I have said two things that have come true: 1). John Valentin would be a better second baseman than a shortstop; 2). And after Kevin Kennedy's departure, I wanted Jimmy Williams as the new manager, if they didn't get Jim Leyland. Well, both of those have come true and since the Sox haven't had a good manager since the last Williams, then maybe that's a sign.

This year's team has a lot more depth than the ones from the past. And one thing to be excited about is after this year, the Sox will have about 15-20 million freed up to get a big number one starter, a center fielder and a catcher. Add those three along with a great infield, and five up and coming stars - a la pitchers Jeff Suppan, Brian Rose, Carl Pavano, OF Trot Nixon and 2B Donnie Sadler - and already that has the make-up of a very good club.

If this year's players ever get healthy, I think the Sox should surprise some. I'm not going to say that they will win the Series, or the Division, but I think they will certainly compete for the Wild Card spot and win a respectable 83-88 games.

The starting five, though, has a lot of questions. Avery, I hope will regain his old form and I think that he will win about 15 games. Gordon had a terrible year last year and depending on who shows up between him, Wakefield and Sele will determine if the Sox are for real or not. John Wasdin was a great pick-up as now that allows Reggie Jefferson to get 500 ab's and put up some really good numbers. Bret Saberhagen should help the team when he gets back.

As for the bullpen, I really like it. Heathcliff Slocumb, I think, has one of the best arms in baseball, but he needs the right guys to get to him. Last year he didn't because Stanton stunk and Belinda and Maddux were hurt. As this season starts, already Brandenberg and Checo (who if ever healthy will be a dominating pitcher) are injured. That leaves Maddux and Corsi along with lefthanders Vaughn Eshelman, Butch Henry and Chris Hammond to round it out and perhaps they all could have big years.

The offense is very good, while the defense is better than it was last year. Nomar is for real and expect him to have a terrific year defensively, while, being one of the best number nine hitters in the league.

I like the idea of Nachring batting second, but who will bat lead-off? If Cordero goes on the disabled list, Williams should platoon Tavarez and Bragg in left field and bat them first - at least there is some speed in the line-up. Valentin, if he stays on the team, will have a big year with Vaughn and Jefferson following with 30 or so homers, 100 or so rbi's and both batting well above .300. Thereafter, expect Mack to have a blast at Fenway and about a .330 average, while the platoon of Pemberton and O'Leary should be fine in rightfield.

The Red Sox do need several things to be a serious contender. I like Cordero but there is no place for him. Mack should be in left, with a true center fielder, while the team desperately needs a right handed, strong armed right fielder as well as a few real pitchers. New pitching coach Joe Kerrigan will really help out a lot, and he alone should help many of the mediocre pitchers that Boston has.

But as for the team in general, they have a much better coaching staff than they did a year ago, they have a deeper pitching staff even though they don't have the number one starter and they have a better defensive team than a year ago. Haselman should do fine as a everyday catcher and if Pemberton is for real, expect Mike Stanley to get traded for a new Statman.

New York Yankees

Additions: LHP's David Wells, Mike Stanton and OF Mark Whiten.

Subtractions: RHP John Wetteland, LHP Jimmy Key and C Jim Leyritz.

Outlook: Whenever a team loses the caliber of two pitchers like the Yanks did in John Wetteland and Jimmy Key and then replace them with David Wells and Mike Stanton, to go along with another huge stiff in Kenny Rogers, then you know that the Yanks are in a lot of trouble. Ha, ha!

The starting three of David Cone, Andy Pettite and Dwight Gooden should all have big years, but Mariano Rivera will probably not be able to handle the closer's role, and/or his arm will fall off, and the Yanks are a few arms short in the pen anyway.

As for the offense, it is good with the likes of Derek Jeter, Joe Girardi and Bernie Williams. Tino Martinez is solid at first, but who knows what they will get from Cecil Fielder, Wade Boggs, Paul O'Neill and Whiten? All four of them will probably put up some good numbers.

I don't know about you, but watching the Yankees celebrate on the field last year, was probably one of the worst days of my life - so I'm trying to think of any excuse of not going through that moment again.

Detroit Tigers

Additions: RHP's Doug Brocail, Willie Blair, Todd Jones, Dan Miceli, OF's Brian Hunter, Vince Coleman, 2B Jody Reed, SS Orlando Miller, C's Brian Johnson and Matt Walbeck.

Subtractions: RHP's Jose Lima, Richie Lewis, LHP's C.J. Nitkowski, Joey Eischen, OF Ruben Sierra, SS Alan Trammell, C Brad Ausmus.

Outlook: To be perfectly honest, the Tigers offense and defense could be very good, but the pitching is better than it was last year, but it still remains probably the worst in baseball.

AL Central

- 1). Cleveland
- 2). Chicago
- 3). Kansas City
- 4). Minnesota
- 5). Milwaukee

Cleveland Indians:

Additions: RHP Mike Jackson, OF's Marquis Grissom, Dave Justice, Kevin Mitchell, Chad Curtis, INF's Tony Fernandez, Robby Thompson, 3B Matt Williams and C Pat Borders.

Subtractions: RHP Julian Tavarez, LHP Alan Embree, OF's Kenny Lofton, Albert Belle, INF's Jeff Kent and Jose Vizcaino and C Tony Pena.

Outlook: When I originally wrote this piece on Monday afternoon, I predicted the Indians to finish fourth, while, the Royals were the sleeper pick to take the division crown. But on Tuesday, the Indians make a huge trade with the Braves as they sent Embree and Lofton packing for Justice and Grissom and that trade should eliminate many of the problems that I originally said would happen of why I thought they were an overrated team.

So with a terrific outfield in Manny Ramirez, with Justice and

Wildcat sixth grade hoop

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Girls Sixth grade Travel Basketball Team recently completed a successful season.

With the exception of one veteran, this represented the girls' first foray into the highly competitive River Valley League. The girls completed the season with a very respectable record of 10 wins and 11 losses.

During the 14 game regular game season, the Wildcats had seven wins and seven losses with some impressive victories over stiff competition from North Andover, Danvers and Masco (two victories against each) and Lynnfield. Losses came at the hands of some more experienced teams from Beverly, Winchester and North Reading.

The girls also went outside of their own league to play some of the iron from the higher divisions where they showed great hustle and teamwork stopping an excellent Tewksbury team and dropping two very close hard fought decisions to strong Chelmsford and Billerica clubs by a total of six points.

When the league playoffs rolled around, the Wildcats drew a tough Billerica team who had squeaked out at one point nail biter earlier in the season. Unfortunately for Wilmington, the services of one of the top players, Stacy Comer, were lost due to the flu. Despite a valiant effort by her teammates, Wilmington fell short.

The finale to the season came over the weekend of March 22-23 where the girls competed in the Little Riverhawks Tournament at UMass, Lowell. Playing three teams they hadn't faced before, the Wildcats turned in two very impressive victories against Methuen and Dracut before falling to a powerful St. Andrews team.

Throughout the season, the girls proved that hard work and teamwork could overcome bigger and more experienced opponents. Different players consistently stepped up and met the various challenges.

Over the season eight different players led the team in scoring. Stacey Comer proved to be a consistent scorer, tough rebounder and excellent defender. Ashley Morgado was a force under the boards and developed some fine offensive skills.

Lauren Rappoli was the team's most explosive scorer hitting double figures several times. Lauren Crowley kept opposing defenses honest with her long rang shooting. Katie Halas provided steady ball handling and pinpoint passing against tough pressure. Brynna Moroney always managed to come up with tough rebounds in heavy traffic. Allea Scifo displayed a soft shooting touch and contributed many key baskets. Katie Haepers scored some big hoops by always managing to get herself open. Keri Gillespie, a veteran of last year's team, played strong, aggressive defense. Shannon Gilligan displayed a real nose for the ball coming up with many key offensive rebounds. Shannon Kent led the team in diving for loose balls and proved to be a tough defender.

A special thanks goes out to the parents, families and friends of the team who provided tremendous support throughout the season.

The Wilmington sixth grade girls traveling basketball team completed a fine season.

Wilmington Mite B's take Clippers

Wilmington 7
Newburyport 3

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Mite B Team, sponsored by the Wilmington Arena Authority, had a successful weekend coming away with two victories, one in the Valley League over Newburyport, A team and another over Nashoba B team in the Dual State League.

The first game saw lots of offense as the two teams exchanged goals. Nicholas Yeomelakis got the scoring started on a nice pass from David Rizzo just two minutes into the first. Newburyport tied up half way through the period as it was shot through a screen of players. Dan Tobin came up with some pretty big saves when Zachary Church shot the puck at the net as it deflected in off the defenders' skate to give Wilmington the lead heading into the second.

Newburyport came out early in the second to tie it back up once again just breaking in off of Tobin's glove. The two teams traded rushes until halfway through the second when Rizzo knocked in a Yeomelakis rebound to give the Cats back the lead.

Wilmington picked up back to back penalties, after that killing off the first, Steven Stokes put in a shorthanded goal on a feed from Eric Svensson who just broke up a three on one going the other way. One minute later Stokes fed Svensson from inside his own blue line, when he took it to the net he drew the goalie right then put it in on his backhand to end the second.

The third saw Newburyport score quickly but that would be the last one Tobin would let by as he shut them down the rest of the way. Wilmington added two more as Derek Sullivan brought it in for the score from his own end and Keith Irwin made a nice centering pass to Rizzo for his second of the game.

Wilmington 2 Nashoba 1

The second game for the Mite Bs was a Dual State matchup against Nashoba B team that they won by the score of 2-1 to keep them one point in front of Reading for first place. It was a defensive game that belonged to the goalies as Danny Tobin made some fine saves to secure the win. There was no scoring in the first, but the line of Shayne Pellerin, Eric Svensson and Dave Rizzo had a couple of good chances but were stopped.

Strong defense by Shane Foley and Chris Fraser going to Mike Earls and Brad Fraser. Nicholas Yeomelakis made several good saves in the effort.

Salem/Swampscott 7
Wilmington 2

In a previous Valley League game the Mite Bs lost to the Salem/Swampscott A team by the score of 7-2 as they tried to compete in this strong Mite A Division. The Wildcats played a good game, not as one sided as the score appeared with a lot of offense in the first as they got several quality opportunities on net, but just couldn't get it by the goalie.

The defense also made several good plays with Eric Svensson making a big stop on a breakaway, and Derek Sullivan dove to stop a shot/pass attempt in front of Derek Flodin who saw a lot of shots and made several good saves. The Salem/Swampscott team got the first goal as it went in off a skate in front of the net to end the first.

Wilmington came right back at the start of the second to tie it up as Zachary Church poke checked the puck at the blue line to Mike Earls who brought behind the net, then centered a pass to Nicholas Yeomelakis waiting out front for the score.

Salem/Swampscott then added five goals to their lead with four of them being shot from the top of the circle going in just under the crossbar with some hard work from Dan Steenbruggen he was able to bang home a Shane Foley rebound shooting it in far side.

In the third Flodin was called upon to make several more great saves with some help from defensemen Chris Stafford and Danny Tobin. The Wildcats just ran into some good goal tending as they just couldn't get by the Salem/Swampscott net minder.

Stafford to help keep the Nashoba off the board. Nashoba finally broke the scoreless tie getting one by with four minutes left in the second. Good pressure in the third by forwards Derek Flodin, Derek Sullivan and Nicholas Yeomelakis as they were wearing down the Nashoba net minder.

Wilmington got on the board when Robby MacKinnon fed a pass to Brad Frasher behind his own net and he took it end to end as he let go a blistering shot at the top of the circle beating the goalie stick side. Dana Steenbruggen added the game winner as he shot the puck in after he was tripped to the ice with Keith Irwin and Seven Stokes there just in case there was a rebound.

This was a much needed win in the Dual State League as the Cats were coming off a 2-1 loss, only their second of the season the week before. The only score of that game went by Robby MacKinnon with

Major League Baseball Preview from page 19

Grissom, as well as a decent starting staff and a great bullpen, the Indians are the team to beat now. However, pitchers Jack McDowell and Orel Hersher are a year older now and are more susceptible to injuries, while, closer Jose Mesa faces a rape charge and shortstop Omar Vizquel is having his share of injuries now. On paper, this team should win it, but I wouldn't be surprised at all if they didn't.

Chicago White Sox

Additions: RHP's Doug Drabek, Danny Darwin, Jaime Navarro, Roger McDowell, OF Albert Belle and C Tony Pena.

Subtractions: RHP's Alex Fernandez, Kevin Tapani, OF Danny Tartabull and C's Pat Borders and Don Slaught.

Outlook: Last year the Sox didn't win because of their pitching. They have lost one of the best arms in baseball in Fernandez, a 200 inning guy in Tapani, while Wilmington native Jason Bere is out until mid-June.

So that means, Wilson Alvarez and Navarro take over as the top two starters. They both have a lot of potential, but they are young so they might not be able to handle the pressure. James Baldwin is solid, but he hopes not to have the sophomore jinx, while, Darwin and Drabek will star in Grumpiest Old Men.

The pen is good with Roberto Hernandez being set-up by McDowell, Larry Thomas, Bill Simas, Matt Karchner and Tony Castillo, but again a lot of those arms are young.

What else can you say about the offense except for Frank Thomas and Albert Belle? Sure they should both hit 50 homers, but with Robin Ventura out for a month, who will protect Belle? Harold Baines? He's okay, but if Thomas thought he walked a lot, hello Belle.

Tony Phillips is one of the better lead-off hitters in baseball, while, Ray Durham is starting to show that he will be a force to be reckoned with, but catcher Ron Karkovice, shortstop Ozzie Guillen and Baines are all old, slow and very susceptible to injuries. And that, Ventura being out and not enough pitching is why I think the Sox won't win the division.

Kansas City Royals--

Additions: LHP Doug Johns, INF Jeff King, SS Jay Bell and DH Chili Davis.

Subtractions: RHP Marc Gubicza, LHP Mike Magnante and 3B Joe Randa.

Outlook: If the Royals add two relievers (one being a left-handed) and if they stay injury free and a few of their younger players have big years, then they could keep up with the frontrunners.

Look at their line-up and their defense. Tom Goodwin leads off and last year he batted .282 while stealing 66 bases and he is only 28 years old. Bip Roberts bats second and he is a great contact hitter who will bat over .300 and steal 20 bases. Johnny Damon, a very good young player, batted just .271 last year with six homers and 25 stolen bases, but expect him to have a huge year.

Then, the team added Chili Davis who will have a monster year because of the three guys batting ahead of him, therefore, with a lot of traffic on the bases, Chili will get better pitches to hit and he will drive in about 150 runs. Jeff King belted 30 homers and drove in 111 teammates last year as he will bat fifth, followed by Jose Offerman (.303 5 47 24), Craig Paquette (.259 22 67), Mike MacFarlane (.274 19 54) and Jay Bell (.250 13 71).

Don't forget that the team has two younger guys in Bob Hamelin who won the Rookie of the Year award two years ago with his 30 homers and if he or Michael Tucker can find that power stroke, that will not only make Davis and King better, but Offerman will then go to a utility role and the team will have an awesome blend of speed, power and good overall defense (except for whoever plays first base).

The pitching staff does have question marks, but doesn't every team? Kevin Appier, Tim Lincecum, Chris Haney and Jose Rosado are a competent first four as either Johns or highly touted rookie Glendon Rusch will get the fifth spot. The first four all can win between 12-18 games each.

The bullpen is a mess, especially with the early injury to closer Jeff Montgomery, but youngster Jamie Bluma is going to take over. Besides him, Hipolito Pichardo has a solid arm, but Jason Jacome, Doug Linton and Rick Huisman are all major question marks.

Minnesota Twins

Additions: RHP Bob Tewksbury, LHP Greg Swindell, OF Eric Anthony, 1B Greg Colbrunn, and C Terry Steinbach.

Subtractions: None.

Outlook: I love the make-up of this team. If they added Clemens or someone like that, they could easily win this division. The addition of Steinbach will do so much for this team, that it's indescribable.

The Twins have the best manager in baseball, the best second baseman in Chuck Knoblauch and one of the best catchers in baseball. Add that with one of the best pure hitters ever to play in Paul Molitor, an underrated left fielder in Marty Cordova, several young players with lots of potential, a solid bench and a decent pitching staff and this team is most definitely on the rise.

Milwaukee Brewers

Additions: RHP Mark Dewey.

Subtractions: None.

Outlook: I think the Brewers will always be that mediocre team. Why didn't they add anyone? They have some really good talent, so why not add to that some veterans?

The staff is okay with Ben McDonald, Cal Eldred, Jeff D'Amico, Scott Karl and Tim Lincecum and the relief core has potential with Mike Fetters, Bob Wickman, Ron Villone, Doug Jones, Angel Miranda, Bryce Florie and Dewey, but there are really no big names here.

As for the offense, Jeff Cirillo, John Jaha, Dave Nilsson and Jose Valentin are all excellent hitters, with potentially Marc Newfield and Jeremy Burnitz getting a chance to be at that level too someday, but again this team could use a good veteran bat in the middle of the order.

How about the Sox trading Mike Stanley for outfielder Matt Mieske? I think Mieske will become an all-star if he gets the chance to play, he has power, he is an excellent outfielder and he kills left handed pitching while Troy O'Leary kills right handed pitching, hello?

AL West

- 1). Seattle
- 2). Texas
- 3). Anaheim
- 4). Oakland

Seattle Mariners--

Additions: RHP Scott Sanders, LHP Jeff Fassero, OF Lee Tinsley, INF Brent Gates and 3B Mike Blowers.

Subtractions: RHP's Chris Bosio, Mike Jackson, LHP's Terry Mulholland, Sterling Hitchcock and OF Mark Whiten.

Outlook: I love this team. And I have loved it for a while now, and this is my choice to win it all - only if Randy Johnson is healthy.

Starting with Johnson - who could easily win at least 25 games - the addition of Fassero with Jamie Moyer and Scott Sanders are a solid foursome who combined to go 42-19 and add twenty more wins to that with a healthy Johnson.

If your still not convinced, turn to the offense. Need I say more than Alex Rodriguez, Edgar Martinez and some guy name Ken Griffey Jr., who all combined to hit .330 with 111 homers, 132 doubles while driving in 366 runs. Oh, some bald headed guy plays right field (Jay Buhner) and some Somerville native plays first base (Paul Sorrento) and those two alone combined for 67 homers.

The one area that does need help is the bullpen, and if it continues to give them trouble, expect the team to address the problem with a deal or two.

Texas Rangers

Additions: RHP's John Wetteland, Xavier Hernandez, Cory Bailey, OF Mike Devereaux and INF Billy Ripken.

Subtractions: RHP's Jeff Russell, Mike Henneman, LHP Mike Stanton, OF Darryl Hamilton and SS Kevin Elster.

Outlook: Every year I trash these guys and this year I won't because they actually finally addressed their bullpen problems and they have an overall pretty good team. The problem here though is the loss of center fielder Hamilton to the Giants and Juan Gonzalez for a month due to an injury.

The starting staff is not bad and guys like Pudge Rodriguez and Dean Palmer is not too shabby either, but I just don't think they have enough this year to beat the Mariners.

Anaheim Angels

Additions: RHP's Marc

Gubicza, Todd Van Poppel, LHP Allen Watson, DH Eddie Murray, 2B Luis Alicea, INF's Dave Hollins and Craig Grebeck and C Jim Leyritz.

Subtractions: RHP Shawn Boskie, INF Rex Hudler, 1B J.T. Snow and DH Chili Davis.

Outlook: The Angels don't have a bad team, they have holes like every other team, but I just don't get them - one minute it seems like they are going younger with guys like Watson and Van Poppel, while getting rid of veterans like Hudler and Davis and the next minute they add the same type of veterans in Hollins and Murray. They just don't seem like they have a plan.

Oakland Athletics--

Additions: RHP Richie Lewis, DH Jose Canseco, INF Dave Magadan and C Dave Valle.

Subtractions: RHP's John Wasdin, Jim Corsi, SS Mike Bordick and C Terry Steinbach.

Outlook: Do the A's possibly think they will be a better team since losing their best starter in Wasdin, and one of the best shortstops in baseball in Bordick and one of the best catchers in baseball in Steinbach, while adding one of the best right fielders in baseball in Canseco?

Do you think Canseco will shake his head more when he sees how bad the A's pitching staff is?

Predictions:

Wild Card: Toronto
Cy Young: Randy Johnson
M.V.P.: Ken Griffey, Jr
Rookie of the Year: Nomar Garciaparra
AL Champ: Seattle
NL Champ: San Diego
World Series Champ: Seattle in six

College round-up

By JAMIE POTE

As another sports season begins, several local athletes are about to begin another season for their respective collegiate teams.

At U.Mass-Lowell, junior right handed pitcher Mike Alonardo with his blazing fastball, hopes to continue the success he has had not only at WHS, but in his early days with the River Hawks.

Also on the same baseball team is senior pitcher Chris Cullinan, of TMHS.

Speaking of U-Lowell teams, Pamela McNeil a freshman from Tewksbury who graduated from Austin Prep just a year ago, will be trying to help lead the young Lady River Hawks squad to a banner season as an outfielder.

And speaking of softball, two other locals are doing very well. Nancy Pote and Leanne Harris, 1995 and '96 WHS graduates, both are continuing their high school success with fine performances thus far at St. Joseph's College in Maine and Salem State College.

If anyone else knows of any other Wilmington and Tewksbury natives who are currently playing or coaching at the collegiate level, they are urged to contact Jamie Pote at the Town Crier at 658-2346. However due to space and time, there is a limit of just one story per athlete or coach, but there is no limit, other than space, for little notes about local athletes like up above.

VEGETARIAN Delights

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Portabella mushrooms, if you have not as yet tasted them, can be mistaken for a grilled steak.

A mild to very hot chili made with textured vegetable protein (TVP) instead of meat is just as tasty as anything from the south-west.

A wheatberry salad with raisins and cranberries has all the chewy texture of a piece of chicken, but a much more vibrant taste.

These are just some of the alternative dishes that vegetarians turn to to replace the protein and vitamins but not the cholesterol or other unhealthy aspects of meat.

For other healthy aspects many vegetarians are turning to Quinoa (pronounced keenwha) a grain known to the Inca's and now being touted as the "supergrain of the future." Mixed with cucumbers some oil and other seasonings it makes a very refreshing meal that is as pleasing to the eye as it is to the taste buds.

Health conditions, lactose intolerance, simple love of animals or many other reasons have led many people into the ranks of vegetarianism.

By the same token the different types of vegetarians, from those that will eat fish and chicken to those that have nothing to do with the consumption of any animal product, let alone eat it, gives a diversity to the ranks that is pretty well represented in groups such as North Shore Vegetarians (NSV), located in Boxford and meeting in Danvers.

NSV was formed in 1991 by a group of individuals who were committed to promoting respect for all life through a vegetarian lifestyle.

Free travel ideas

Is it possible to travel for free? "Yes," says author and tourism expert Adam Starchild. "It takes a bit creativity, a dose of old-fashioned ingenuity, and, most important, a great deal of reliable information. We can provide the information you need to know to travel wherever your dreams may take you without ever worrying about the cost."

This book, Insider's Secrets To Free Travel reveals the names, addresses, telephone numbers and background information of companies offering low cost and free travel plans worldwide. Included are details and descriptions on the various plans, step-by-step instructions on how to contact the companies and receive discounts of up to 60% on motels, resorts cruises, airfare, special attractions, and more. The book is available for $19 plus $3 shipping and handling from Integrity Research, 832 D Kalpati Circle, Carlsbad, CA 92008.

According to Starchild, the low-cost and free travel possibilities are endless. "People can learn how to become couriers, transporting time-sensitive business cargo such as files or computer disks. They can discover how to exchange their home for a comparable residence in a foreign country for a few weeks.

Auditions for seniors play

Ivy Watson, President of the Winchester Senior Association announces sponsorship of a new one-act play, written expressly in observance of National Senior Centers Month (May) by Dolly Springer, who will also produce and direct. Tryouts will be held on Thursday, April 3rd at the Jenks Center in Winchester, and are open to mature, older actors in Arlington, Belmont, Medford, Reading, Stoneham, Winchester and Woburn.

The cast includes seven women and four men, most in ages from 59 to 75, with three roles in 40 to 50 range. The play, described as a "whimsical comedy", is entitled THE PARK BENCH and depicts vignettes of several unique, amusing and appealing characters on an afternoon in May.

Springer says that, although the play salutes National Senior Centers Month, it is a celebration of life, love and friendship, and its humorous, varying situations pertain to a universal audience, regardless of age.

WSA's President Watson says, "It's exciting to have the opportunity of presenting the premier performance of a new play on the site of our Pond Room. And following the performance the audience will partake of High Tea refreshments and can also meet the Cast and Crew. We hope to welcome a large attendance."

It is emphasized that rehearsals will be held in the afternoons, beginning at 1:30, once a week during April and twice a week during May, with the matinee performance on Thursday, May 22 at 2pm. A reminder that the try-outs are on Thursday, April 3rd at the Jenks building in Winchester Center.

Dolly will be assisted in the Casting by an award-winning community theater actress and a TV commercial producer. So, brush up on your "subtle" comedy skills, with a little poignancy here and there, and phone for more information or directions to Winchester. Call either Dolly 617-729-2706 or Daryl Bach, Publicity, 617-729-4055.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

A fallen Star

"Manion's Star Market on Middlesex Turnpike has closed because of a decline in business, the president of the store confirmed," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"A resident phoned the 'Daily Times Chronicle,' saying he had noticed a sign on the doors this week that said 'Store Closed,' with personnel inside the premises taking stock off the shelves.

"The store is closed," said Michael Manion, president of Manion's Star Market, in a telephone interview.

"This store was built in the 1960s, for citizens to do their grocery shopping in the 1960s, 70s and 80s," said Manion. "Now it is the age of the superstore. We can't compete with the superstores."

"Manion said he attempted to 'cut the store in half and make it a specialty store,' i.e. one half of the store would be an upscale variety store specializing in deli and bakery services, and selling some perishables.

"I tried to do that, but I could not get a tenant to come in," said Manion.

"The decision then was to close the store.

"You don't see stores of this size opening up anymore," said Manion. "Supermarkets opening these days are three and four times the size of this one."

"Manion did not speculate on whether the store would ever relocate or re-open...."

The master plan

"Planning Board chairman Stephen Parkhurst has indicated that zoning changes will probably result from a current Master Plan study," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Board members reviewed written comments submitted by the Design Review Committee, the Conservation Commission, and the Housing Partnership Board in an ongoing effort to formulate a Master Plan for town development.

"Board members spent most of the meeting discussing a portion of land referred to as the 'triangle,' which encompasses the area south of the Woburn line, west of Washington Street and east of Middlesex Street and Sylvester Avenue.

'The store is closed'

"Town Meeting had previously allotted $25,000 to fund a study to determine the best possible development plan for that area.

"Board member Dan Chane questioned the Design Review Committee's recommendation that industrial zoning in that area be eliminated entirely, saying he would like the Planning Board to review the parcels and consider maintaining one as an industrial zone.

"The Housing Partnership Board reportedly advocates using the area for multi-family housing. "Parkhurst said that although he may indicate at Town Meeting that some zoning changes should be made, no recommendations will be presented until the fall, after everyone has had a chance to reflect on the options during the summer.

"The board was scheduled to meet with John Brown Associates, the consulting firm conducting the study, on March 17. During late March and early April, a final draft of the Master Plan will be drawn up for presentation at Town Meeting...."

Vegetarian Delights

From S-1

The monthly meetings, all year, no matter the weather, includes speakers from health care professions, videos, potluck dinners and panel discussions by experienced vegetarians.

Beverly resident Pam Eckman, treasurer for the group said, "We are really trying to be a support group for people interested in becoming vegetarians. Whether they want to be full vegetarians or just want parts of it."

"We are not judgmental," Eckman said, "The interesting part of the group is its diversity."

That diversity, according to North Shore Vegetarians President Libby Williams of Boxford, is not only in the different types of vegetarians that are among the small (65 people) membership, but also from the different areas they come from. Williams said that the group's membership spans from Gloucester to Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield.

Williams notes that there are four basic groups of vegetarians:

- Lacto-Ovo, who will drink milk and eat eggs and cheese and other dairy products;
- Lacto will only drink milk and eat cheese or other dairy products but no eggs;
- Ovo will only eat eggs and not partake of any dairy products;
- Part-time (for want of a better term) or occasional, who will eat chicken or fish; and

-Vegan (strict or pure vegetarians) who do not eat or wear any animal product at all. This includes leather, silk or wool.

Williams notes that Vegans are broken up into two categories, the Nutritional Vegan will wear clothes such as leather boots or wool.

Williams, who has been a vegetarian for 22-years in November, considers herself to be a strict Vegan, although she still has an old pair of leather boots she wears in the winter.

She explains that there are many styles of cloth or linen sandals and pure rubber boots on the market that can be worn. For formal occasions, she has velvet and cloth dress shoes.

According to Williams, there is no need to wear plastics or other materials that would pollute the atmosphere to stay away from wearing animal hides.

If you should meet these two people, don't expect to meet any dour looking people without a sense of humor. They both expressed good personalities and were able to show a lot of enthusiasm.

Taking a humorous view of the people she meets, Williams said that the first thing a lot of them do when they find out she is a vegetarian is to look down at her shoes.

Williams explained that she read the book, "Animal Liberation," by Peter Singer which led to her becoming a vegetarian.

"I was so affected by the book," Williams said, "I gave up meat 'cold-turkey.'"

She has only been a Vegan for four years.

Although she is one of the many people who give up meat for ethical reasons, Williams said, "The longer I gave up meat, the more I looked at the health reasons."

Health was the reason that Eckman became a vegetarian about two years ago. It was not as dramatic a change in life and eating style as Williams was but started with reading a book.

Heart problems are prevalent in Eckman's family, with both her mother and father having received invasive treatments.

Shortly after Eckman had received a diagnosis for high cholesterol she found a book by Dr. Dean Ornish which talked about not just coping with heart problems but reversing them.

Eckman then saw Ornish on a Public Television Station program and he was recommending not just getting the body's fat intake down to 30 percent but reducing it even further to 10 percent.

Eckman then went to Atlanticare Medical Center in Lynn and consulted with Dr. Harvey Zarren, a strict Vegan, and physician director of the Healing Connection and the Healing Your Heart programs at the hospital.

After listening to him talk to her father, Eckman decided to give up meat for at least six months. She was successful at that and has now given up dairy products and eggs.

Dr. Zarren will be addressing the North Shore group on April 17 in their meeting place at the Hunt Center, Lindall Street, Danvers. As with all meetings it is free of charge, although a small donation is requested.

Membership in the group is $10 per-year and includes the newsletter published once every two months.

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

WAKEFIELD native and freshman forward on the Phillips Andover Academy varsity girls ice hockey team JESSICA JUDGE has quickly made a name for herself this year as one of the top athletes at that institution.

Judge played on the varsity soccer team last fall, and besides playing on the top line for the hockey team she is practicing two sports she is unfamiliar with - varsity lacrosse (she has taken a few shots as a goalie thus far) and is interested in luge as well.

Though she has stated in the past that her main love is the sport of hockey, Judge has emerged as a top-of-the-line luger after attending a summer clinic in Danvers hosted by NYNEX (wheels were used on the sleds). Judge was chosen out of a pool of 700 as one of 75 lugers to head to Lake Placid, New York, to take part in a training camp, where she put up speeds of 55-60 mph.

Academics are just as important to Jessica as sports. She posted straight A's while attending the Galvin Middle School in Wakefield, and received the Richard J. Phelps Scholarship to attend Phillips Exeter Academy. She has also been a part of the Johns Hopkins University Center for talented Youth over the past five years, and has tested among the top 1% of students in the entire country. When she took her high school SAT's in the seventh grade, she was able to record a score that was higher than about 45% of the college-bound seniors who took the same test.

SPORTS SHORTS

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Here's a question that's perfect for everyone out there who has ever watched a gymnastic meet and wondered, "How can they stay on that thing?" How long and wide is the balance beam used in Olympic gymnastic competition? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

*North Reading resident and Suffolk University women's basketball coach ED LEYDEN has been named the Coach of the Year in the Great Northeast Athletic Conference after guiding his team to a 10-12 record and a spot in the playoffs.

*Four skaters represented the North Reading Hornets in the Cape Ann All-League and All-Star game. BRIAN MCAULIFFE, a senior forward, and BILL MOSS, a sophomore goaltender earned All-League honors, while CHRIS SANTIANO, a junior forward and MATT VAN LAETHAM, a junior center earned All-Star honors. North Reading Coach Peter Barraso was also awarded the CAL Coach of the Year award for the second time.

Richard's Poor Almanac

by Dick Madison

Honestly! When is the last time you spit? If you are a woman, chances are that you, will become quite indignant and say, "I never spit. Except when I brush my teeth, or when my dentist tells me to, and anyhow that's not like actually spitting." And, you'd be correct! Men, on the other hand understand real spitting...expectorating...and practice and refine this important form of expression from early boyhood. When a young lad first learns to spit, it shows all the other kids in the schoolyard that he has just embarked on his journey into manhood. Nobody messes with a kid who spits. On the other end of the spectrum of age we have the old timers who when they have to mention someone they strongly dislike...what do they do? They say the name, and then they spit.

Recently, in a moment of extreme malaise, I found myself staring at a Red Sox baseball game on TV, when suddenly I noticed that everyone was spitting. Not just that, but since the last time I watched baseball spitting, it had become an art form. First you had the guys in the dugout. Many of them were spitting out sunflower seed shells by the zillion at least. Frankly, it made no sense to me at all, until my fair and lovely wife told me that sunflower seeds contain something like nicotine and they were all getting their kicks. I will research this matter, and also how Judith knows about this.

The rest of the ball players...the ones who were not stoned on sunflower seeds...were participating in a beautiful aquacade. Just as one man would spit, usually from between his teeth, and second man, a third, the fourth and so on would follow, back to the sequence and so on as others joined in. Once I accepted the bizarre premise of this endeavor, I became fascinated by the choreography and found that I suddenly longed to turn down the sound, and to listen to a recording of Respighi's "Fountains of Rome."

There are many forms of spitting. The most unpleasant is "spitting up." Did you know that if you spit in the subway in New York City you are subject to a $50 fine? However, if you vomit in the subway there's no charge. This leads me to Pete Sampras, the world's number one pro tennis player. This year, at the U.S. Open, Pete got sick on camera and "spit up" all over the tennis court. Somehow he went on to win the tournament but guess what became of the hot selling video?

Of course not all forms of spit are disgusting. When we sometimes stumble while we are expressing ourselves, we're told to spit it out.

Children are proud to be the "spitting image" of mom and dad.

What could be cuter than your little Tyke's spit curl that is achieved roughly by spitting on the kid's hair and sticking it to the forehead.

The spit ball. When paper is chewed in the natural saliva found in the mouth (spit), rolled into a ball, then thrown or shot in school. It is a darling act, except to the teacher. However, when a baseball player spits on the ball in order to throw the thing at the batter's head at 90 miles per hour, some folks, fail to see the humor. They sometimes spit venom.

In the winter, especially just before Christmas, we get all exited when it starts to "spit snow." This is not to be confused with when it "spits rain."

In the movies, an exciting woman may be a spitfire, but Saint George would slay every spitfire he came across in order to save the damsel.

"Finally, we have the most-desirable "spit and polish." There seems to be no historical record of who got the bright idea of spitting on his shoes to enhance his shine but "I'll stick to my Kiwi, thank you."

Well, there we have an examination of the remarkable properties of spittle. Now, that your life has been enriched by this treatise, I leave with the obvious recommendation: "never ever into the wind."

School officials take stand

"Superintendent Dr. Carol Eaton has decided to take a stand against state Board of Education Chairman John Silber and his proposed social studies frameworks," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"As far as I'm concerned, it's not challenging," Eaton said.

"Eaton said Winchester schools would use the old draft of the state's social studies frameworks, made up by a committee before Silber joined the board over a year ago."

"The most recent draft was rejected by the state Board of Education, in part, for being too narrowly focused, but Eaton does not have much faith in the next document."

"Silber dismissed the former group and created a new, smaller frameworks committee (only three members), who do not represent the diversity of interests the previous group had, Eaton and Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum Dr. Kathleen Buckley said.

"If the framework is as limited as the one which the state came forward with previously, we will not base our curriculum on it," Buckley said.

"Silber has alienated many professional educators with his rhetoric. Rancor at the recent slur on women aside, Eaton and Buckley said the recent frameworks' educational philosophy was based more on political doctrine than on research."

'Rote learning'

"The frameworks aside from being narrowly focused on western, and especially American culture and society, favor a rote learning style, rather than one which encourages and develops critical and creative thinking.

"That ignores research," Buckley continues in the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle" (please see above).

"Eaton and Buckley point to recent neurological studies which found people retain information better when they can relate it to something else."

"Memorizing lists of names does not work toward that end, they contend."

"The new frameworks, language arts has already been approved, also anger many educators used to having more say in planning their students' education. The frameworks are intended as a guideline, but Eaton and Buckley see them as a mandate."

"What we have now, really, is a curriculum. We've had a tradition of autonomy in Massachusetts," Buckley said, 'It's a simple 'thou must' list."

basis for the state achievement tests, given in fourth, eighth and tenth grades. High school students must pass the test in tenth grade to graduate," continues the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle" (please see above).

"Eaton believes curriculum based on the previous frameworks is enough to prepare students for any achievement test."

"With a rich curriculum, the students will know what they need to know," she said.

"In the meantime, Winchester teachers and administrators have been hard at work, determining achievement expectations for social studies at various grade levels."

"There was a curriculum in place, but they (the teachers) had a lot of latitude," Buckley said, and clear expectations needed to be established in order to, 'assure a commonality from grade to grade.'"

Classical guitar concert

First Parish Concert Series presents a guitar recital featuring a guitarist/composer Jeffery Steele performing a program entitled Guitarra Illuminada on Sunday, April 6 at 7pm at First Parish Congregational Church on 1 Church Street in Wakefield. The program includes guitar solo arrangements of music by J.S. Bach, music from 16th and 20th century Spain, Steele's own compositions, and features music from the Missa Pange Lingua by Renaissance master Josquin des Prez (arranged for two guitars).

A native of Gloucester, Steele has performed throughout New England-both in ensembles and as a soloist in colleges, schools, concert series and festivals (including Tanglewood) for 20 years. He has been described as a "splendid musician" by the Boston Globe.

The piece Jeffery Steele has composed for the program, Voice of Creation, offers listeners a restorative inward journey. At times, stereo signal processing is used to add dimension; and for one movement, the composer plays over a previously created hypnotic accompaniment.

Depending on which period the music was written, Steele, uses one of two classical guitars. A bright(undersized) instrument-which is particularly well suited to music from the 16-18th centuries- and a deep sounding instrument of traditional design for music from the 19th-20th centuries.

A $5 donation is requested for admission. For further information call the church office at 617-245-1539.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Good news Folks, the 'ROBINS' usher in the first day of spring. The 'BLUEBIRDS' welcome in song the warm summer days-BUT-the 'STORK' brings, 'TAX EXEMPTIONS.'

Winston Churchill was a great orator. He once said, "I know great crowds come to hear me speak-BUT instead of making a Speech, if I was being 'HANGED' the crowd would be TWICE as big."

When Father Mericantanti was a Missioner in a very poor section of Peru, he asked a boy who had only one shoe, "How did you lose the other Shoe?" The young lad smiled and said, "I didn't Father, I found this one."

When I married Kathy, it marked the end of a beautiful friendship that started in the first grade.

Will Rogers said, "I'd rather be the Man who bought the Brooklyn Bridge than the man who sold it."

Folks, did you hear about the dentist who married a manicurist? Well they are now fighting, 'TOOTH' and 'NAIL'!

Chris Corbelle said, "Orthodonture" is a dental procedure that keeps children, "BRACED" and parents, "STRAPPED!"

Folks here's proof that laughter is the BEST medicine, Dr. Walter M. Bortz said, "There is no drug in current or prospective use that holds as much promise for well being than, 'Exercise,' 'Laughter' and, 'LOVE'."

Woodchips is the prescription for LAUGHTER the other two are up to you.

Almost everyone answers the telephone by saying, "Hello." One exception I know is my friend Wayne Higden who says, "Joe's Poolroom, 'Eight Ball' speaking. There are many ways of ending a conversation like, Bill Burton who says, "Thanks for calling." Bob Booney tells me, 'Buzz off Buzzard,' Howie Murphy says, "if it's Brian McCarthy calling press one. If it, Bill Clinton press two and if it's the Woodchipper, get lost you creep!"

Times are tough to some people even professionals. A lawyer handed me his card and said, "if you ever need legal advice, call this number. It's a candy store. My Uncle Danny will give me the message."

Paul Travers asked me, "Chipper, how's our wife Kathy doing with her bowling?" I smiled and replied, "Paul she's doing a heck of a lot better than her golf, so far she hasn't lost a BALL yet."

Folks, I've said this many times but it bears repeating, "what the 'LARGE PRINT' in a contract giveth, the 'SMALL PRINT' taketh away."

A White House security guard stopped Jack Benny and asked, "What do you have in that package under your arm?" "A Machine Gun," Jack replied. "OH! in that case, Mr. Benny go right in. I was afraid you had your 'VIOLIN' with you!"

Eli Whitney was the inventor of the 'Cotton Gin'. He was also known for his heavy drinking. One day he shouted to his workers in the field, 'keep your cotton picking hands off my GIN!'

Dan Luberto asked Kathy, "how do you want me to cut our pizza, SIX or EIGHT PIECES?" "you better make it 'SIX', Kathy exclaimed, "I'm on a diet."

Folks, if you care to count them there are only exactly 239 Beans in a can of Baked Beans. If a mistake is made and one more is added, it would make them, 'Two Forty'.

When handsome Joe Ravida and his bride to be, inspected a new house to buy, Joe tapped on the living room wall. He turned to the builder and exclaimed, 'Gee! this wall doesn't sound too sturdy?' "Of course not!" the contractor replied, "we haven't got the Wallpaper on yet."

Tony Stack had a great day on the golf course yesterday, he only fell out of the golf cart twice.

My six year old Danny is in the first grade in school. He sings the first line of America this way, "My Country Tis of Thee, Sweet land of 'LIPTON TEA'."

My friend Tommy Ciovacco told me, 'Chipper, the difference between, 'FOOTBALL' and 'BASEBALL' is-in Baseball it's the 'BASSES' that get 'LOADED!'

Angelo Quaganti told me that Gardeners who have a 'GREEN THUMB' usually also have 'BROWN KNEES'.

Blackie Vega took his dog to obedience school. The dog graduated, Summa Cum Laude but Blackie had to repeat the course.

The doctor told my Aunt Nora, "The pain in your right knee is caused by arthritis because of, OLD AGE." "I beg to differ with you doctor," Aunt Nora replied. My LEFT KNEE is just as old as my Right Knee and it doesn't bother me a bit!"

Child psychiatrist Dr. Lam joins Melrose-Wakefield

The Department of psychiatry of Melrose-Wakefield Hospital is pleased to welcome Christopher Lam, M.D. who specializes in child and adolescent psychiatry.

According to Dr. Lam, many children and adolescents have psychological concerns that are unidentified and untreated. Many times we overlook these concerns because we don't expect children to experience the same concerns as adults.

Dr. Lam often treats children with depression who exhibit the same symptoms as adults, including irritability and angry outbursts. Often, these are attributed to tiredness, physical illness and even "being fresh or spoiled."

So how do we know when and if to seek professional help for our children? "Seek help when you feel that your child is having problems that interfere with his or her potential to achieve to the best of his or her abilities," says Dr. Lam. "If a general moodiness or depression becomes a pattern and causes your child to stop doing or participating in activities that he or she used to enjoy, you should seek professional medical help."

At Melrose-Wakefield, Dr. Lam treats children from ages 3-19. For each patient a diagnostic assessment of symptoms and school functioning are conducted. He works in conjunction with the many other mental health professionals of the MWH Outpatient Psychiatry Program, who also provide family and individual help, play therapy, etc.

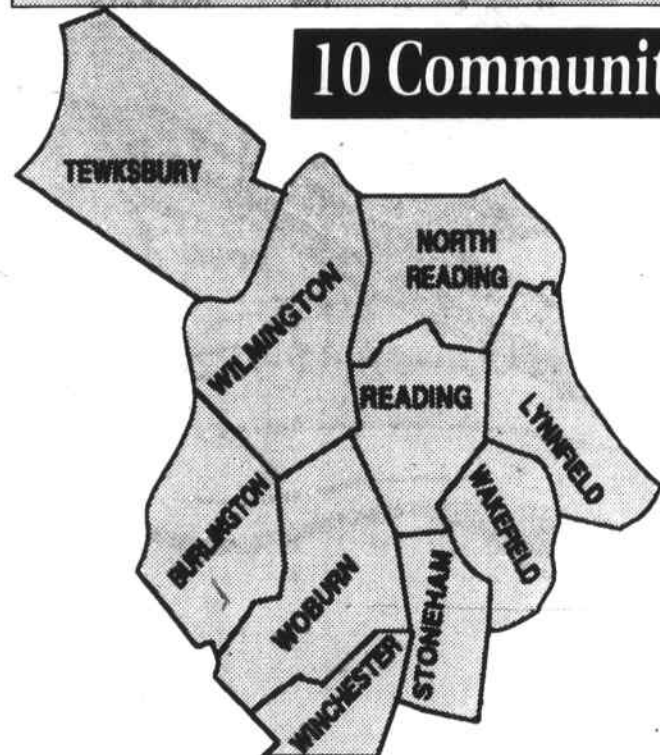

Dr. Lam received his medical degree from the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio, Texas in 1990. He graduated from Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island in 1986.

Dr. Lam did his residency in adult psychiatry at the Mass Mental Health Center in Boston and a residency in Child Psychiatry at Children's Hospital in Boston. He also completed a transitional Internship at the Brackenridge Hospital in Austin, Texas. Dr. Lam was a Child Community Tract Fellow at Children's Hospital/Mass Mental Health from 1993-1994 and was awarded a M.A.P. Reader's Digest International Fellowship in 1989.

Dr. Lam comes to Melrose-Wakefield Hospital after serving with the Dana Farber Cancer Center Brigham & Women's Hospital and Mission Hill Elementary School. He also works with the South Cove Chinese Community Health Center and at Children's Hospital. D. Lam is currently on the clinical staff at Children's Hospital and is a clinical instructor at Harvard Medical School.

A nifty decked out chalet

G-28

AN ENORMOUS WRAP-AROUND DECK and soaring, angled windows make this home perfect for a scenic setting.

The main floor master bedroom is just steps away from a linen closet and a half bath.

The highlight of the upper floor is a balcony room with a 12 1/2 foot vaulted ceiling, exposed beams and tall windows. A decorative railing frames an overlook to the dining area below. Two more bedrooms and a full bath with a dual-sink vanity complete the floor.

For those who choose the daylight basement foundation, a recreation room and a general use room downstairs provide additional space for casual activities.

G-28 Statistics

Design G-28 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, balcony, three bedrooms and two full baths, totaling 1,933 square feet of living space. The optional daylight basement foundation, which includes a recreation room and a general use room, provides an additional 479 square feet of living space. A crawlspace foundation is also available. This plan comes with 2x6 exterior wall framing. A tuck-under garage provides 501 square feet of space.

In addition to its 1,933 square feet of living space, Plan G-28, by HomeStyles Designers Network, offers an enormous wrap-around deck and soaring expanses of glass, making it ideal for a scenic setting.

Inside, the living and dining area features a fireplace with a raised hearth, and enormous windows to take full advantage of the outdoor setting. In the dining room, a 17 1/2 foot vaulted ceiling and sliding glass doors to the deck create a spacious, open feel.

A breakfast bar sets off the kitchen from the dining room, and provides a convenient spot for snacks. The laundry room is located just off the kitchen.

THE LIVING AND DINING ROOMS MERGE, and a dramatic 17 1/2 foot vaulted ceiling crowns the dining room. Sliding glass doors in the dining room open to the deck, while a snack bar is provided for casual dining. At the rear of the home, the master bedroom is located near a full bath. Upstairs, a 12 1/2 foot vaulted ceiling is featured in an open balcony room, which overlooks the dining room. Two more bedrooms and a full bath complete the floor. The daylight basement option provides additional living space in its recreation room and general use room.

Changing your house color?

Each spring and summer, thousands of homeowners decide to paint the exterior of their homes. For many, the mere thought of standing in front of the paint chip rack at their home improvement retailer is so overwhelming that it keeps them from tackling this relatively simple project.

By following some very simple guidelines, even the most squeamish do-it-yourselfers can decide on what colors to use while improving their curb appeal and adding property value.

"Once spring arrives, our aisles are full of customers trying to select a color to paint the exterior of their home," says Guy Bowman, a paint department manager at The Home Depot. "With just a little bit of homework, the do-it-yourselfer can select new colors with confidence."

Do your homework. Start a file to keep your notes, photos and color chips organized.

Take a drive in your neighborhood. Which colors do you like? Photograph some that you like and some that you don't. Pay particular attention to color combinations and where different shades of paint are used.

Check magazines. Architecture, decorating and home improvement magazines are wonderful sources of inspiration. Cut out pictures of what you like for your file.

Note your neighbor's home. You don't want your house to stick out, but neither do you want to have several in a row all the same color.

Photograph your own house. Analyze the style, materials used and overall look. This will help you decide how to blend the existing features of your home with your new color scheme.

Think practically. It would seem odd to have a pink house in the middle of a wooded lot. Common color schemes are found regionally - green and brown up North and in the Midwest, sandy colors out West and sunny colors in the South.

Get out your crayons. Photocopy the picture of your house and enlarge it. Use crayons or colored pencils to play with different color combinations and color placement. Do you really want a red front door? Try it out on paper first.

When you've gathered all your information, lay it all out and notice the similarities. Are all the houses dark? Are they all white? Your clippings will lead you to the colors you like and how you will use them on your house.

Getting Started

It's time to make our final selection.

Lighter is bigger, darker is smaller. Most people select a lighter color for the main body of their house and darker colors for the trim. Lighter colors make a house look larger, and darker colors make it look smaller.

Do you like it? To make sure buy a quart of your selected color and paint it on a larger area of the house. Photograph it look at it from across the street at different times of the day. Once you are sure about the main color, then move on to the trim.

Give a warm welcome. If you are timid about paint, use your boldest color on your front door. That way it isn't a large area, but it is a significant one and one that will add a little punch to the welcoming area.

Avoid the trendy. Now is not the time to throw caution to the wind for the latest color craze. Painting your home's exterior is a time consuming process and the paint should last for several years-too long to live with a trendy fashion statement.

Don't be afraid. It's only paint. You can always change it again.

Window treatments add beauty to rooms

When decorating a room, most people consider paint colors, wallpaper, carpet and furniture. But many times the most overlooked element in interior design is the window treatment. Not only are window treatments functional, but they also impact the look and feel of a room.

Blinds

"The most popular window treatment is the metal or aluminum miniblind," says Leslie Langenburg, Interior Designer at the Home Depot. "We carry most sizes in stock, all the way up to 52 inches (width), and we can also special order any size." The blinds come in a standard length of 64 inches, which are designed to accommodate most window sizes.

Langenburg recommends installing the blind above the wood frame of the window. Even the beginning do-it-yourselfer can install miniblinds in about 15 minutes. The only tools you'll need are a drill, screwdriver

Ask Your Realtor?

Question: Is a Pre-Approval better than a Pre-Qualification?

Answer: Yes. Because a Pre-Approval letter is prepared by the lending institution based on verification of income, assets, and credit, whereas a Pre-Qualification is only based on verbal information supplied by the buyers.

and a level to ensure that the blinds are straight.

Other blinds include the new lead-free vinyl miniblinds; pleated fabric blinds that can be cut to fit any window measurement; roller shades in either vinyl, cloth or bamboo; and vertical blinds.

Shutters

Shutters flatter their surroundings without competing with them. They easily adjust to changing light conditions and provide complete privacy when closed. Shutters are reasonably priced and of good quality. They also are easy to install, like the miniblinds.

Shutters are versatile - equally at home in different style setting, from country to contemporary.

Draperies, Swags and Cornice Boards

Tailored draperies frame the window's view both inside and out. The fold of fabric or graceful billows of curtains pleasantly soften otherwise rigid architectural lines, and at the same time, compliment the outside view. Sheer drapes, on the other hand, are used to screen the outside view without affecting the natural light. They add a touch of softness and grace to any room.

Swags are lengths of fabric draped on or around a curtain rod that fall into place around the window frame.

Cornice kits are very easy to install. Simply glue or staple the fabric director onto the board. Like the miniblinds, you'll only need a drill to put in the screws and brackets to mount it over the window.

Our sidewalk has cracked over the winter. What is the correct way to repair it?

Sidewalks take a beating from the very beginning. While a house is under construction, a new sidewalk often floats high on a bed of fill-sand, which eventually erodes from the sides and is swallowed by utility trenches.

Then, before the expectant family moves in, their new sidewalk will bear the weight board with masking tape to keep the patch from sticking to the board.

Several conditions will cause the portland-rich surface of a sidewalk to pop loose. The problem may be caused by a poor concrete mix, an aggregate that was not sufficiently clean or the failure to protect the surface from certain mortar with a vinyl granular resin as a bonding agent. Add water, and the bonding agent is activated.

To repair surface pops which commonly appear at the edges of a walk, it's best for you to form the edge of the walk, as if for new concrete, for a uniform appearance. First chisel a shallow trough, of delivery trucks, landscape tractors, etc., usually before the concrete is fully cured. Over the years, the soil beneath the sidewalk heaves and settles. It all adds up to cracks and other problems.

Your home: Q & A

To deal with cracks, the goal is to seal out water because wet soil beneath a sidewalk only exacerbates the problems of frost heave and settling.

Narrow cracks less than one-half-inch should be caulked shut with a liquid polymer crack filler. One such product is Sure-Fix Pour-n-Patch, made by W. R. Bonsal Co., Charlotte, N.C.

Most concrete crack fillers will not cure properly when applied more than one-half-inch deep. Deeper cracks require packing the joint with some form of backing, such as foam-plastic backing rod, or pouring the filler in two or more applications, each three-quarters of an inch deep.

Highlights of the crack repair process begins with first brushing away debris from the cracks and then pouring in liquid-polymer crack filler to a level just below the surface.

On edge cracks or breaks, undercut the edge of the concrete with a cold chisel to increase the bonding surface. Install a form board against the side of the slab. Then cover the extremes in weather.

Of course, cold weather can damage a fresh concrete surface, because the surface is the most susceptible to frost. More often, however, the problem is caused by heat. When concrete is poured on hot days, the surface dehydrates faster than the concrete below it, causing the slab to weaken and separate just below the surface. Fresh concrete should always be covered on hot days.

Larger damaged concrete areas and surface pops require patching. Standard masonry mortar has little bonding strength when applied in thin layers. If you intend to use standard mortar for your patch, mix a prescribed amount of acrylic bonding agent into it for greater strength. One product, Sure-Fix Super Concrete Patcher, also from Bonsal, is a dry or keyway, into the concrete to give the patch a compound surface to adhere to. Remove debris from the affected area and dampen the surface prior to patching. Apply patching material using a small trowel, then feather the patch to match the surrounding area.

Try pressure treated wood

The next time you consider building, remodeling or adding on to your home, you may care to treat yourself and your family to the protection of treated wood.

There are three main ways treated wood makes more safety sense than many other materials.

1. Because treated wood resists decay, termites and other damage, it lasts a long time, remains structurally sound and is less likely to collapse.

2. Pressure treated wood is better for the environment when compared to other building materials.

3. Because it's basically real wood, it's textured and not as likely to lead to slips and falls as many smoother construction materials.

There has been some talk of a danger from the materials used to preserve wood. But in fact, scientists say, treated wood is safe to use as recommended around people, animals and plants. As a result of the natural fixation reaction, wood treated with arsenical preservative is highly leach resistant. Even in the first months after construction, tests show that water runoff and the ground have no more arsenicals than a lump of common table sugar and less than drinking water in many places.

What's more, a number of standards have been developed to assure that the wood has been properly pressure treated. These standards also require that pressure treated wood be clean and free of surface deposits.

Before buying any wood, you should examine it for an end label, stamp or brand indicating that it has been treated in accordance with industry standards.

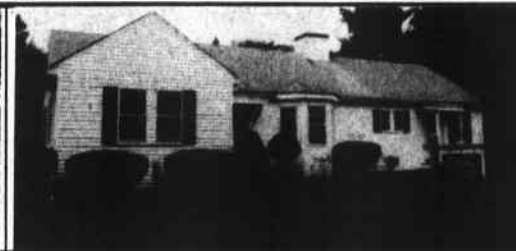

For more information about treated wood products, write to: American Wood Preservers Institute, 1945 Old Gallows Road, Suite 150, Vienna, VA 22182-3931; or call (800) 356-APWI.
